

Adrian Dirschell lives in Coldwater, Michigan, with his wife, Jessica, and their two sons, Ayden and Landon. Ayden attends Trine University, and Landon is a junior at Coldwater High School.

He currently serves in a leadership role with the Michigan Department of Corrections, overseeing Chaplaincy and Prisoner legal service statewide. Adrian serves as the Chair of the State of Michigan Chaplaincy Advisory Council and as the Department's Tribal Liaison, working with federally recognized tribes and community faith leaders. He is also a member of the Michigan Chaplains Association and the American Association of Christian Counselors.

Outside of work and volunteering, Adrian enjoys watching his sons participate in sports, hunting, and spending time vacationing with friends and family. He is committed to public service, collaboration, and strengthening our local community.

When asked about his Board Membership with BCCF, Adrian said, "I am honored to contribute my experience and perspective as a member of the Branch County Community Foundation Board."
