

Salwa Alsuraimi moved with her family from Buffalo, NY to Coldwater in 1995 when she was just 4 years old. Salwa grew up in Coldwater and graduated from Coldwater High School in 2010. She is currently studying medical science at Kellogg Community College. Salwa is a member of the Planning Commission and is also employed as a medical assistant at a pediatric doctor's office. Salwa has two children and is the founder of local nonprofit Aira, an organization that connects families with services they need in order to empower women and underrepresented groups and promote education and cross-cultural outreach within the community.

Salwa is a passionate barrier breaker, and her mission is to bring together people from all walks of life in Branch County to build a better, more inclusive world for our children and grandchildren. She loves reading, tennis, and travel.
