Final Tips

Scholarship selection committees may have hundreds of personal statements to review. It is YOUR job to get their attention. Remember to:

- Think before you write. Brainstorm to generate some good ideas and create an outline to help you get going.
- Be original and be creative in your answers. Show, don't tell. Use examples to individualize your statement. Demonstrate the point you want to make. Avoid vagueness to make a strong impression.
- Proofread. This is very important! You do not want to have any typos on your statement. Check spelling and grammar. Share your statement with a friend, parents, or teachers. Another pair of eyes can catch errors you might miss!
- Create your portrait. By doing this on paper, you create a vivid portrait that will depict the person behind the grades, activities and awards. If a committee member feels like he or she knows you, you have done your job and created a powerful emotional connection that elevates your application, and makes it stand out from others.
